PREFACE

It is well known that vast literature of scientific heritage of India is lying in manuscripts unexplored. It is necessary that an inventory or catalogue of manuscripts in the field of Ayurveda is made available to research scholars. This is the basic need of the hour. The erstwhile CCRIM&H published in 1972 a Checklist of Sanskrit Medical Manuscripts in India, which was a 'modest or even a feeble effort', as stated in its introduction by Late Dr. D.V. Subba Reddy. There have been proposals to enlarge and make it more exhaustive. Now it has been revised, enlarged, renamed as "SANSKRIT MEDICAL MANUSCRIPTS IN INDIA". It contains information on [redacted]3377 manuscripts titles held in 140 Repositories / Archives in India.

I am aware that still there is vast material to be surveyed and consolidated since substantial manuscripts are lying in public private and individual, which has been left over. The National Mission for Manuscripts estimated that there are 5 million manuscripts in India. Out of these the number of manuscripts on Ayurveda and allied subjects may not be less than a million. The survey and collection of information on manuscripts lying in public, private and individual collections in different parts of India and abroad is a Herculean task.

It is thought better to publish the material collected to make it available to research scholars. Efforts have been made to collect as much information as possible from different repositaries either by procuring the published catalogues or by requisitioning the information.

Dr. B. Rama Rao, former Director, Indian Institute of Panchakarma, Cheruturuthy, Kerala, deserves special thanks for undertaking this voluminous work of compilation. The assistance of Dr. Vinod Kumar Bhatnagar also deserves appreciation.

G. S. LAVEKAR

INTRODUCTION

It has been my earnest desire, since the publication of the "Checklist of Sanskrit Medical Manuscripts in India" in 1972 by CCRIMH (now CCRAS) to revise and enlarge it and publish a comprehensive catalogue of manuscripts of Ayurveda and allied subjects. When I suggested this, Dr.K.D.Sharma, Deputy Director (Tech) readily agreed and I was asked to guide it.

I am happy that this catalogue of medical manuscripts is published now though it is not exhaustive. My experience in Andhra Pradesh, Tamilnadu and Kerala shows that there is still a large number of manuscripts scattered in different smaller libraries and individual collections. Unless some devoted, trained and experienced scholars go around different parts of the country, particularly rural areas, it is not possible to get full information of manuscripts. However, information from many private collections in Tamilnadu and Kerala could be obtained from the book "Science Texts in Sanskrit in the Manuscripts Repositories of Kerala and Tamilnadu" compiled and edited by Late Prof. K.V. Sarma. Similar efforts are necessary in other states also. It is hoped that the National Mission for Manuscripts undertakes a serious survey of manuscripts through out the country.

Sources

The information presented in this work is based on the following.

1. Checklist of Medical Manuscripts in India
2. Descriptive catalogues of manuscripts of different libraries
3. Ordinary catalogues with a few details only
4. Lists supplied by libraries
5. Lists collected by the compiler and other staff of IIHM
6. "Science Texts in Sanskrit in Manuscripts Repositories in Kerala and Tamilnadu" compiled and edited by Prof. K. V. Sarma.

Presentation

Information collected is arranged in columns for title, author, script, Library where available, accession number and remarks. Information like commentaries, date of compilation or transcription, translations etc are given in remarks column.

Index

Transliteration of names of titles, authors and others are not uniform in all catalogues or libraries. There were no facilities and time for going through the manuscripts for verification. The copying was done as found in the catalogues or lists and the Research Fellows who collected the information also did not follow the uniformity of diacritical marks. Due to this some titles with different spellings appear at different places. To overcome this, indices of authors and titles in Sanskrit alphabetical order with diacritical marks have been added.

Acknowledgements

I am very much thankful to all the institutions and individuals for readily providing the information. My special thanks are also due to Late Prof. K. V. Sharma for information in the public and private libraries in Tamilnadu and Kerala even when the book was in its final stage of publication and also to the Director, Rastreeya Sanskrita Samsthan.

I am thankful to Dr. Vinod Kumar Bhatnagar, Research Officer(Ay.), Dr. Momin Ali, Ex-Assistant Director-in-Charge & Dr. Ala Narayana, Assistant Director-in-Charge, Indian Institute of History of Medicine, Hyderabad for their assistance.

I am thankful to Dr. G. S. Lavekar the present Director of CCRAS, Dr. G. Veluchamy the earlier Director and Dr. K. D. Sharma, Deputy Director (Tech) for their continuous support to the project.

NOTE TO THE USERS

i. It is not exhaustive but a modest effort to meet the immediate need.

ii. First index is to be referred to and then the information and material at the serial numbers mentioned.

iii. Information on allied subjects like vrikshayurveda, veterinary medicine, erotica, yoga and others was planned to be included but this was not done, except in a very few libraries.

iv. In a few cases the titles were not clear from the spelling used in transliteration. Ghata may be ghaṭa (घट) or ghāta (घात); sita may be śīta (शीत)or sitā (सिता). Similarly in libraries where subject is not mentioned, selection was made on the basis of the title and due to this some manuscripts on other subjects might have been included. The works like Rasasagra, Rasaprakasha may be of Alankarasastra.
